About This Catalog

The Education Catalog of ProQuest microform contains approximately 30 research collections 19 serials and over 80 special reports. Inside you will find titles from around the world that support programs for all levels and disciplines within both school and non-school educational settings. This catalog also contains information on obtaining Dissertations on Education.

This catalog would be of interest to researchers in the fields of History of Education, Special Education, Counseling and Guidance, Professional Development, Educational Leadership, Curriculum Development and Education Administration and Policy.

Two pivotal collections from the catalog are, The Horace Mann Papers and The Canadian Curriculum Guides. The Horace Mann Papers include Mann's correspondence and speeches among other papers, while The Canadian Curriculum Guides include all curriculum guides, 1976 – present, issued by Canadian educational departments. Also available are numerous special reports related to education, such as, 15 to 18 (Crowther Report); the report of the Central Advisory Council for Education in England.

This preface provides a glimpse into the contents of the Education Catalog of ProQuest microform. Feel free to browse through our titles, or if you are looking for a particular research collection, please consult the index in the back. If you have any questions regarding any of our titles, please contact your ProQuest representative at umisalesinfo@il.proquest.com, 800.521.0600 ext. 2793 or 734.761.4700 ext. 2793.

If you would like additional copies of this or any of our ProQuest Microform Catalogs, you may either make photocopies of the catalogs or contact your ProQuest representative to have printed copies mailed directly to you.

The Advantages of Microform

Despite the continually developing array of digital technologies—and sometimes because of it—information professionals at libraries and universities worldwide still rely on microform. They know it is an archival medium that will meet the needs of researchers for years to come. Microform provides many advantages including:

- New Viewer/Scanners - Images can now be easily sent to remote locations using microform viewer/scanners, which link to your computer workstations, letting you view and print articles or digitize and transmit them electronically (within Fair Use guidelines). This approach combines the unparalleled preservation and storage benefits of microform with the speed and ease of electronic access.
- Special Collections - Microform is the answer if you need hard-to-find or specialty resources. Many older newspapers and periodicals are available only in microform, and it gives your users access to complete page images from historical titles—often from the first issue forward.
- Space Savings - Microform lets you store an extensive collection of complete article images in a small amount of space. Microform takes up less than one-tenth the area of bound copies of newspapers and periodicals.
- Ownership - There is no upkeep or access fees. It uses stable, proven technology you already have, with no need for new workstations or continual software upgrades.
- Clarity and Accuracy - Microform is the answer if you need cover-to-cover clarity and accuracy. Full-image articles are essential to getting the full story.
- Complete Collection - Microform usually is the best solution if you need a complete collection fast. Maybe you're seeking accreditation or even rebuilding after a disaster. An extensive, customized collection of retrospective and current microform titles will meet the needs of your researchers quickly and efficiently.
- Support for Specialized Studies - A compact collection in microform will meet specialized research needs and still leave plenty of resources for the rest of your population. Many libraries also use microform as an added point of access for content that is most in demand.
- Durability - archived properly, it can last for generations, and there is no degradation of images.
- ProQuest Quality - ProQuest's microform images are taken directly from the original printed pages, so you always get the clarity of first-generation copies.

ProQuest Microform is the answer because we've been producing it since 1938. We not only exceed industry standards, we set them. Our microform products include thousands of newspapers and periodicals and hundreds of research collections, many of which are not available from any other source.

The American Sunday School Union Papers

1817 - 1915

The American Sunday school - both as a movement and an institution - had far-reaching effects on the development of our nation's social, cultural and religious values. For example, the American Sunday School Union (ASSU) provided the materials and training by which many frontier adults and children learned to read while promoting the establishment of Sunday schools throughout the nation. The American Sunday School Union Papers provides an historical archive documenting the key leaders, projects, strategies and attitudes that characterized the Sunday School movement of the 19th and 20th centuries. Founded in Philadelphia in May of 1817, the Union began as a coalition of local Protestant Sunday school groups. The Union's goals were to promote the establishment of Sunday schools and to provide local communities with libraries and materials for religious instruction. From the beginning, this was a non-denominational organization that set aside differences in doctrine to teach the masses the "cardinal truths of Christianity." This 500,000-page microfilm collection features: correspondence, reports from the network of ASSU missionaries on the social, economic, cultural and political conditions of the expanding United States, administrative records documenting the Union's internal struggles and the complete run of the Youth's Penny Gazette (1843-1860), the most important juvenile periodical published by the Union. Through these papers, researchers and students of religion, education, history and American studies can study the effects of the ASSU on American religious and cultural ideals.

Commitment and Caring: Over Five Centuries of Historical Nursing Materials Including the Adelaide Nutting Historical Nursing Collection

1400 - 2000

The commitment of nurses worldwide to excellence in health care, research and teaching has made this profession an integral and indispensable part of today's medical establishment. Schools of nursing and institutions supporting nursing programs can now carry this commitment forward by making the research resources of Teachers College, Columbia University, part of their own teaching libraries. The History of Nursing is a unique historical collection that chronicles the development of nursing education and the profession of nursing. Included are 1,500 monographs and 85,000 items such as letters, minutes, records, government reports, position papers and photographs providing insights into the lives of nursing pioneers and the ongoing progress of their successors. This comprehensive collection is divided into three parts.

- Supplement to Part II: The Archives, 1986-2000
 The Supplement to Part II, released in 1986, adds another body of important material to this collection. It contains the personal and professional papers of two of nursing's outstanding 20th century leaders: Eleanor C. Lambertsen and Eugenia K. Spalding. Eleanor Lambertsen was active in many facets of nursing, including the National League for Nursing and the American Hospital Association. Included in this section are records from her many government positions with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, the Veteran's Administration and the Department of Defense, plus her work for New York State and many prestigious health foundations. The papers of Eugenia K. Spalding document her major role in the education of nursing faculty and the appraisal and improvement of nursing education programs. Among the materials included are papers pertaining to her work in the United States Public Health Service, her tenure at Teachers College, Columbia University, as well as her lectures, addresses and published works.

Massachusetts Historical Society Collections

1419 - 1970

The Massachusetts Historical Society is an independent, not-for-profit research institution incorporated by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts. It was founded in 1791 for the threefold purpose of collecting, preserving and disseminating resources for the study of American history. It was not only the first North American historical society but also the first library of any kind to devote its primary attention to collecting Americana. These collections cannot be matched either in scope or depth by those of any similar institution in North America. Titles from the MHS Collections may be purchased by individual reel.

- The Horace Mann Papers

Widely recognized today as "the father of American education," Horace Mann was largely a self-made man. Subjected to the most primitive of childhood educations in the early 19th century, Mann floundered before meeting an itinerant tutor who prepared him for Brown University in a matter of months. He went on to a distinguished career as lawyer, state legislator and president of the Massachusetts state senate. In 1837, however, Mann jumped at the chance to reshape Public education as secretary to the new state board of education. With only moral suasion to rely on, he rebuilt Massachusetts' educational system and promoted centralized programs still in place around the country: the first normal colleges, minimum school year laws, free nonsectarian education and adequate funding. He later served as a U.S. congressman and president of Antioch College. This microfilm edition of Mann's papers includes his general correspondence, lectures, sermons, speeches, legal notes and journals, letters by Mary Peabody Mann and Elizabeth Palmer Peabody; letters by Eliza A. White to Mary T. Peabody; and other miscellaneous papers and letters from the Massachusetts Historical Society holdings. Individual reels may be purchased.

Meiji Zenki Kyoiku Shiryo Shusei: Compilation of Documents in the Development of Education in the Early Meiji Era*

明治前期教育資料集成

1868 - 1890

The nationwide spread of education following the Meiji Restoration has come to be appreciated not only as a key to the modernization of Japan, but also as an outstanding example of effective educational effort from which much can be learned by nation builders elsewhere. Comprehensively documented here for the first time are the details of this prodigious educational program from 1870 to about 1892. To make possible this microfilm edition, which greatly surpasses all previous compilations of such materials, approximately 300 volumes were sought out in widely scattered libraries, including the Cabinet Library and the official libraries of the prefectural governments.

Minutes and Reports of the Committee of Council on Education*

1839 - 1899

The Committee of (the Privy) Council on Education was established in 1839 primarily to distribute government grants to the elementary schools run by voluntary societies. This Education Department soon developed in effect into a ministry of education, which was reconstituted in 1899 as the Board of Education. The annual minutes (from 1854 called reports) contain a wealth of information on the working of government educational policy and on schooling in particular towns and areas.

Archives of the American Association of University Women

1881 - 1976

Now entering its second century, the American Association of University Women (AAUW) is recognized and regarded for its support of research on a variety of important social issues such as:

- Sex discrimination
- Alcoholism
- Child abuse
- Mental health
- Civil rights
- Affirmative action
- Prison reform

And all through its history, the AAUW has played a significant role in the advancement of women's rights, the enrichment of higher education, and the shaping of public policy. The archival records of the organization constitute one of the most complete collections available that provides an in-depth view of women's achievements. This collection includes correspondence, historical documents, and detailed surveys tracing the progress of the AAUW from inception to 1976. Chronicled are the AAUW's attempt to secure equal opportunities for women in the academic community, their support of legislation for the betterment of society, and efforts to improve education at all levels. Published from the holdings of the AAUW National Archives in Washington, D.C., this collection is a rich resource for institutions with programs in the areas of women's history, education, minority rights, political science, lobbying, and international relations. With this collection, students and scholars can now study:

- The history of women's status in education and work-related fields
- Issues of world consequence covered by the AAUW research reports
- Important social legislation and the part women played in its passage
- Women's accomplishments in education and other fields over the course of the past century

The collection also features the personal papers of Ida H. Hyde (1867-1947), prominent scientist, educator, and AAUW member. Her diaries recount the struggles faced by a career-oriented 19th century woman. How Hyde overcame the obstacles of unjust treatment, unequal pay, and the unwillingness of her male colleagues to accept her are illustrated in a personal glimpse of a woman ahead of her time.

English Linguistics

1500 - 1800

Like all living languages, English has gone through tremendous changes, perhaps the greatest in the years 1500-1800, as it continued its movement away from Middle English. It was during this time that scholars began to standardize the language and impose grammatical rules. This need to standardize was driven by the onslaught of printing technology, which produced increasingly greater quantities of printed books sought after by a growing number of literate adults. The rules, guidelines, and precedents set during this time continue to affect the way we speak and write today. In English Linguistics, ProQuest® brings together 365 titles essential to the study of English linguistics on a historical basis. The facsimiles preserved in the collection comprise a comprehensive and authoritative source of linguistic studies. The titles include textbooks of rhetoric and logic, early grammars (written in English) of most Indo-European languages, grammars of English, dictionaries, studies in the theory of language, and studies on pronunciation and style. Titles reveal linguistic changes, demonstrating language evolution through the years. Here is a sampling:

- The boke of Englysshe, and Spanysshe (1534)
- A briefe and a playne introduction, teaching how to pronounce the letters in, the British tongue (now commonly called Walsh) . . . by William Salesbury (1550)
- A very necessary boke bothe in Englyshe and in French wherein thou mayst learne to speake and wryte Frenche truly in a little space if thou gyve thy mynde and diligence there unto (1550)
- Luddus literarius: or, the grammar schoole; shewing how to proceede from the first entrance into learning, to the highest perfection by John Brinsley (1612)
- The art of logick; or the entire body of logick in English by Zachary Coke (1654)
- Accedence commenc't grammar, supply'd with sufficient runes, for the use of such (younger and elder) as are desirous, withoutmore trouble than needs to attain the Latin tongue; the elder sort especially with little teaching, and their own industry by John Milton (1669)
- The many advantages of a good language to any nation: with an examination of the present state of our own: as also, an essay towards correcting some things that are wrong in it (1724)
- A grammar of the Arabick language by John Richardson (1776)
- An attempt to render the pronunciation of the English language more easy to foreigners. . . by William Smith (1795)
- A pronouncing dictionary of the English language, . . . (1796)

This collection is essential to those studying linguistics, the history of language, etymology, semantics, the history of education, rhetoric, and sociology.

Gannett, Betty. Papers of Betty Gannett

1929 - 1970

Controversial Marxist writer and teacher, Betty Gannett was a committed member of the Communist Party for over 45 years, remaining active in spite of imprisonment and frequent persecution. Her papers are a remarkable testimony to a free-thinking and courageous woman. As educational director of the California Communist Party, she lectured extensively not only on Marxism but on contemporary concerns such as the Truman Doctrine, the Cuban Missile Crisis and Vietnam. The microfilm edition of her papers reproduces many of these lectures which provide a Marxist perspective on post-war national and international events of interest both to philosophers and to political and economic historians.

Gubernskie Vedomosti

1838 - 1920

The Gubernskie Vedomosti were pre-revolutionary local governmental newspapers published throughout the Russian Empire largely between 1838 and 1917 (although a few titles were issued through 1920.) The newspapers were also published in Ukraine, Belarus, Poland, Estonia, Latvia, Lithuania, Moldova, countries of the Caucasus and Central Asia. The Vedomosti were first published in 1838 in 42 cities by order of the tsar. By the beginning of the 20th century, more than 80 were being published. Sometimes the titles differed depending on whether they were oblastnye or voiskovye. Some were daily, other weekly, with print runs ranging from several hundred to several thousand copies. Each newspaper consisted of two sections: official and non-official. The official part published governors' orders and instructions, information on new taxes, court cases, etc. The non-official section was much larger, featuring a variety of information on current local events, plants and factories, sales and market prices, agriculture, transportation, the activity of specific societies, hospitals, educational institutions, libraries, etc. Educational articles on history, geography and economics were also included. In addition, everything from weather forecasts to advertisements could be found here including, on occasion, reprinted material such as diaries, archival documents, biographies and folklore.

Although the non-official sections of these newspapers were originally apolitical, over the years editors began to introduce more and more political material, so that eventually they carried a great deal of information about political events. In 75 cities Gubernskie Vedomosti were the only newspapers available for periods ranging from 10 to 30 years. They were thus the centers of the development of culture, science and education in the district and are tremendously important for modern researchers. No other historical document can replace the Gubernskie Vedomosti, covering as they do the events and news in the lives of people of many districts in Russia for close to a century. Material from the Gubernskie Vedomosti has been used over the years in many scholarly works in history, economics and philology, with many researchers making use of the excellent collection of gubernskie vedomosti in the National Library of Russia in St. Petersburg.

Card Catalog of Gubernskie, Oblastnye & Voiskovye Vedomosti from the National Library of Russia, St. Petersburg

There are 87 Vedomosti listed in this card catalog, comprising the biggest such collection in a single library. Most of them are Gubernskie but there are also Oblastnye and Voiskovye. The city and years of publication, as well as information on supplements, are listed for each entry. This card catalog will be very useful in helping scholars and researchers find information on holdings of Vedomosti at the National Library.

The Microfiche Library of Gerontology and Geriatrics

The aging of our populations has compelled scientists and society at large to focus major new efforts in the varied disciplines of gerontology and geriatric medicine. The Microfiche Library of Gerontology and Geriatrics offers training materials covering all aspects of aging, answering the need for a definitive source of information in the geriatric and gerontological fields of study. These key materials have previously been available only in scattered libraries and in diverse, sometimes inconvenient formats. The collection covers the psychological, behavioral and social and health care aspects of aging. Included are authoritative selections of original contributions based on bibliographies, course outlines and curriculum guides, as well as medical training guides. In addition, manuals, pamphlets and flyers from training programs around the world have been included. Materials for this collection have been compiled and indexed by subject from Duke University's "Key Word Indexed Collection of Training Resources in Aging Project" so that users may benefit from work that has been done in curriculum and program development. There are materials for B.S./B.A., continuing education and graduate programs. Specific training materials focus on topics including long-term care, nutrition, programs for older adults, program administration, pre-retirement programs and volunteer programs.

Within the Aging General section, manuals touch on issues such as:

- Definition of old age
- Social policy and social ethics
- The aging society
- Psychological changes
- Life-span
- Senility and how to respond to it
- Aging among minorities including Native Americans and other cultures
- Sexual life among the aging, love and widowhood

Worthy of special note is an oral history entitled, "Old is What You Get; Dialogues on Aging by the Old and the Young," written by A.Z. Shanks.

Educators and professionals will also find the Design/Evaluation materials valuable. Titles include:

- "Guidelines for the Selection and Acquisition of Gerontological Materials"
- "Florida's Plan to Reduce Crime Against the Elderly"
- "Improving Services for the Rural Elderly"

Also included in the Design/Evaluation section are documents on depression, home health care, independent living services for the aging and the handicapped, drug therapy, legal and social work principles for the care of the aging, occupational therapy, psychosocial needs of older people, homemaker services, counseling, ministry to the aging, plus a "Directory of Adult Day Care Centers." Sample titles in the Bibliographies section include: "Bibliography / Filmography: Ethnicity and Aging," and "Bibliography on Exercise Programs for Older People." Dr. George L. Maddox, member of the Council on Aging and Human Development, Duke University, is the senior editor. The collection contains approximately 700 titles.

Includes author/title guide

Rehabilitation and Handicapped Literature: Vital Literature on Physical and Mental Rehabilitation Programs and Procedures

1950 - 1989

Only in recent decades has the U.S. become committed to developing the full potential of physically and mentally disabled citizens. New programs have arisen out of this commitment - from "mainstreaming" in public schools to barrier-free building design. And along with this shift in focus, there has been a tremendous quantity of literature produced on the subject of rehabilitation. This valuable, informational literature has originated from scattered sources. Much of it, such as many excellent handbooks for the disabled, was never released commercially in printed form. Now these vital resources are available, drawn together in one easy-to-use microform collection, Rehabilitation and Handicapped Literature. Professionals such as physicians, physical therapists, nurses, social workers and others working with the handicapped or involved in rehabilitation programs and facilities find this collection to be a definitive reference source on physical and mental disabilities, therapies and new rehabilitation programs.

The base collection consists of approximately 1,500 full-text items assembled by The National Rehabilitation Information Center (NARIC). NARIC is the national research library serving as both abstractor and indexer for all research reports and audiovisual materials sponsored by the National Institute of Handicapped Research. Featured are statistical surveys, case histories and handbooks for the disabled. In addition to the base collection, updates are now available through 1989. Any institution supporting academic and research programs in rehabilitation, physical medicine, occupational therapy, special education, mental health, rehabilitation engineering and more will find this collection unequalled in bringing together disparate resources for their use. The material spans every aspect of physical and mental rehabilitation, including:

- Physical Disabilities/Behavioral Disorders: paraplegia, quadriplegia, amputation, mental illness, mental retardation, spinal cord injury, hearing and visual impairment and more
- Rehabilitation Professionals and Techniques: administration, behavior modification, counseling, evaluation, occupational therapy, research utilization, speech therapy and others
- Rehabilitation Facilities and Educational Programs: adult day-care centers, community-based rehabilitation, halfway houses, independent living programs, multi-disability rehabilitation centers

With the trend toward independent living and full utilization of potential for the handicapped, this important collection brings to professionals a wealth of literature to assist them in realizing these goals

The Tuskegee Institute News Clipping File

1899 - 1966

Black disenfranchisement . . . the Scottsboro case . . . Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. . . . the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The issues, events and people that make up the modern black experience in America and throughout the world are numerous and the history of this race is fraught with struggle and achievement. Students in African-American studies, American history and sociology can access a comprehensive file for researching 20th century black experience in the United States, Africa and throughout the world. The Tuskegee Institute News Clipping File contains hundreds of thousands of individual news clippings compiled from more than 300 major national dailies, leading Southeastern dailies, black newspapers, magazines, religious and special interest publications and foreign newspapers. Researchers will find primary source coverage on issues of concern to African Americans from 1899 to 1966. The history of black struggles and successes can be traced over the years through these materials and a special insight can be attained by viewing history through the eyes of the legitimate press. The file is augmented with significant correspondence, reports and speeches and covers a wide range of historical and contemporary topics including:

- Africa
- Civil rights
- Employment
- Music, poetry and art
- Segregation
- Anti-Negro groups
- Education
- Ku Klux Klan
- Race relations
- Racial consciousness

This remarkable resource was begun by eminent black sociologist Dr. Monroe Nathan Work of the Tuskegee Institute. As head of the Institute's Department of Records and Research, it was his responsibility to gather, organize and disseminate information about blacks. Dr. Work compiled information from newspapers and periodicals, press clipping bureaus, books, government statistics and reports, questionnaires, correspondence and other sources. Fortunately, his successors continued with the systematic collection of these materials. Filmed from the holdings of the Tuskegee Institute Archives, this collection represents a complete and descriptive record of the social, political, cultural and economic transitions throughout modern African-American history.

Western Americana

1701 - 1976

The settling of the western territories of the United States is a subject that continues to fascinate both the serious researcher and the history buff. The courage and pioneer spirit of the men and women who explored and settled these new lands will always remain an integral part of the American character and legend. Western Americana offers students of American history and others interested in learning more about this country's growth a wide range of books and documents about the American west. This comprehensive microfiche collection spans the 18th through the early 20th centuries and includes federal and state documents, directories, guidebooks, state and regional histories, memoirs, reminiscences and travel accounts and conventional primary and secondary histories of the west. Clark C. Spence and the four other prominent historians who compiled this collection set out to present researchers with firsthand accounts by the ordinary men and women who built the west - sodbusters, livery stable keepers, middle-class housewives. These personal narratives by people who directly observed the early western scene provide unique, vivid descriptions of the conditions and events at the time. For example, Caroline Kirkland's A New Home - Who'll Follow? provides a realistic portrayal of frontier life in Michigan during the 1830s. These informative personal accounts are balanced throughout the collection with numerous works by professional historians, thus providing a complete overview of American history as the settled lands pushed closer and closer to the Pacific Ocean. Western Americana is organized into sub-collections that may be purchased separately. Many of the subject headings listed serve the newer disciplines of ethnohistory, urbanology, natural resources and women's studies:

- The Frontier Thesis
- Earlier Wests
- The Trails West
- Mormon Utah
- Indians
- Other Ethnic Influences
- Extractive Industries
- Agriculture
- Livestock Industry
- Transportation
- Politics & Diplomacy of Expansion
- Government & Scientific Exploration
- Urban Development
- Women of the West
- Land & Water Questions of the Public Domain Conservation & Use of Resources
- Culture, Religion, Education
- Government & Politics
- The Fur Trade & Early Exploration
- Travel Accounts, Memoirs, Reminiscences
- Directories & Guidebooks
- Regional, State, & Local Histories

Within these sub-collections, researchers can explore such areas as accounts of early Anglo-American, French and Spanish explorations in the west, personal narratives by fur trappers and traders and more. The 1,012 titles included also provide a wealth of material on economics, government explorations, religion, education and culture. The collection offers one of the most exciting resources available depicting the western experience as it relates to the social, economic and political development of our country.

Canadian Curriculum Guides

1976 – present

The Micromedia Proquest Canadian Curriculum Guide microfiche service makes provincial curriculum documents easily available to students, researchers, publishers, educators, and libraries. The collection includes curriculum guides or courses of study, plus selected resource documents, issued by provincial/territorial departments of education. All language editions are included. The annual update, appearing in September of each year, includes new guides issued in the previous year. Backfiles are also available. Each microfiche header displays a unique number, which determines filing order, and may be used for quick location of titles in the paper index. An index is supplied free of charge to subscribers which cumulates curriculum guides from 1990 to date. Also included is a list of contents of the current shipment

Please inquire for information on individual provinces, current and backfile

Canadian Research Index

The Canadian Research Index - Microlog places all of Canada's hard-to-find government and research literature at your fingertips. Canadian Research Index is a monthly indexing service that allows you to locate reports you need for business, research or for informed and active participation in community activities. The database includes all depository publications of research value issued by the federal government, the ten provinces and two of the three territories; hard to find non-depository publications issued by hundreds of Canadian government agencies and departments; scientific and technical report literature issued by research institutes and government laboratories; policy, social, economic and political reports; Statistics Canada monographs and serials.

Statistics Canada

Statistical publications are often difficult to acquire. Micromedia ProQuest has done the work for libraries by gathering key documents and making them available on microfiche and libraries can purchase the documents on subscription. The Statistics Canada Microfiche Collection is the easiest way to ensure that your library has the current publications of Statistics Canada including the latest Census of Canada releases. The Microfiche Collection is shipped monthly. All publications, including dailies, are reissued on microfiche. The Micromedia ProQuest microfiche collection of Statistics Canada documents is based on the old catalogued series of statistical documents. Non-statistical publications from Statistics Canada are included in our Microlog microfiche collection. Most of these publications are cited in the Canadian Research Index. This collection offers several important advantages for libraries:

- Statistics Canada microfiche save 95% of the space required for paper copies
- Microfiche is a cost-effective way to ensure you have a complete collection of current and historical documents issued
- Current publications arrive once a month, sorted and ready for immediate use
- Micromedia ProQuest staff include Internet documents for preservation on microfiche to ensure these documents will always be available
- Micromedia's collection includes publications issued by Statistics Canada since the 1851 Census
- Starting in 1996 the microfiched publications are cited in the Canadian Research Index

UMI Dissertation Publishing

Soon after its founding in 1938, UMI became the publisher of record for U.S. doctoral dissertations. To this day, ProQuest fills that role for graduate students whose dissertations and masters theses have been accepted by accredited institutions throughout North America.

How UMI's Dissertation Program Works

Dissertations and theses available from ProQuest /UMI are used by researchers in all fields of study. The ProQuest /UMI dissertation product line – which consists of bibliographic data, indexing, access tools and the published documents themselves – is recognized worldwide because of its comprehensive coverage, high-quality information and rigorous editorial control.

The online ProQuest Dissertation & Theses Database (PQDT) catalogs over 2 million doctoral dissertations and master's theses, dating from the first U.S. dissertation in 1861. Thousands more are added yearly. Over one million dissertations and theses are available in full page image in microform and paper, both bound and unbound. Many are also available in digital format, for downloading over the Web. Dissertations can be located and ordered on a standing order basis or via:

- ProQuest Dissertations & Theses, which provides searching capabilities and online access to citations and abstracts for every title in the database. Titles published since 1997 are available in .PDF digital format and have citation and abstract, plus 24 page previews available. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- ProQuest Dissertation Express for both individuals and libraries. If you have a specific title in mind, Dissertation Express will let you look it up by title, author or publication number. Once you find it, you can place your order immediately via our online ordering system. Use this service when you know exactly which dissertation you need to order. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- DATRIX Direct – custom computerized search service (please see the DATRIX form enclosed in this document). This is an individualized search we perform for you based on your specific research topic.
- UMI Digital Archiving and Access Program - Ask your UMI representative about this new access and preservation service for institutions.

DATRIX DIRECT

Direct to you Successful research depends on your sources. That's why if you're preparing to start a research project, it makes sense to first find out what's been written in your area of interest. You'll not only avoid duplicating someone else's work, you'll benefit from their research. | You could search the titles of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses yourself—if you have the time and patience. Or you can have DATRIX Direct conduct a dissertation search for you that's exhaustive, not exhausting.

Discover sources unique to your topic

DATRIX Direct is an individualized search that gives a one-of-a-kind listing of only those dissertation citations directly relevant to your specific research topic. The result is a computer printout of exactly the bibliographic citations you need. No more and no less. It could be as many as five hundred or as few as none (informing you that your research topic is totally unexplored).

Because it's a computerized search, DATRIX Direct is comprehensive—through UMI's vast computer database of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses dating back to 1861. And with thousands of citations being added to the database every month, DATRIX Direct is more up-to-date than any printed source. ■ Each citation includes a title, author, degree, date, institution, subject category, and order number, as well as where the abstract can be found in UMI's monthly publication Dissertation Abstracts International or the bi monthly Masters Abstracts International.

How to order your search

To organize your search, complete both sides of the DATRIX Direct Search Request form and send it to UMI at the address shown. ■

The results of your DATRIX Direct search will be sent first-class mail and should arrive within two weeks of receipt of your order. For faster service, call us toll free at 800-521-3042; outside the U.S. and Canada, call 734-761-4700, ext. 7044.

SUBJECT CATEGORIES Dissertation Abstracts International is arranged by subject categories. These categories have been selected by the authors to identify their dissertations.

MATRIX DIRECT SEARCH REQUEST

The success of your search depends on how accurately and specifically you describe your research needs. The information you provide below will help us create a search strategy. Please type or clearly print in ink.

RESEARCH TOPIC Write the proposed title of your study or a summary of your research topic _____

DATABASE MATERIAL TO BE SEARCHED (Please check one.) Dissertations & master's theses Dissertations only Master's theses only

KEYWORDS UMI's dissertation database is accessed by a search for keywords in the dissertation title. The number of relevant citations retrieved depends largely on your keyword strategy. For best results, follow the procedure below:

1 Write 1 to 3 keywords from your research topic that might appear together in the dissertation titles in our database (e.g., "Nursing Burnout"). A keyword can also be numeric ("1980") or alphanumeric ("B12"). Only dissertation titles containing all the words you list on a single line can be retrieved.

2 To avoid having to list all possible word endings for a keyword, simply write the root word and an asterisk. One or more complete words must follow the root word on the same line (e.g., "Nurs*", "Burnout*" would search for words such as "nurse, nurses, and nursing" which appear in the same titles as "burnout").

3 Use the other lines for synonyms and alternate words and spellings (e.g., "RN; LPN; BSN").

4 Modify words likely to appear in hundreds of titles with more specific words.

5 If appropriate, use the right-hand column to list keywords that exclude data you don't want. (e.g., "Nurs", "Home" and "Nurs", "Homes" would exclude titles relating to nursing homes or home nursing. Note that the computer recognizes no word order.)

SUBJECT CATEGORIES (optional) Each citation title is listed in UMI's dissertation database in a subject category chosen by the author. On the opposite page is a complete listing of subject categories and codes. List the categories (and codes) most relevant to your research topic.

DEGREE DATES (optional) You may narrow the database search to certain years or time periods (e.g., "1980 through 1983"). This is especially recommended for broad categories such as "Education, Administrative", for which nearly 1,200 titles are added each year.

INSTITUTIONS AWARDING DEGREES (optional) You may restrict the search to dissertations and master's theses prepared for specific institutions (e.g., "New York University and UCLA").
