About This Catalog

The Rare Manuscripts Catalog of ProQuest microform contains approximately 155 research collections. Inside you will find titles from all over the world, including Asia, the UK, Germany, Latin America, France and America. This catalog also contains information on obtaining Dissertations.

This catalog would be of particular interest to researchers in the fields of Ancient, Medieval and Renaissance Studies as well as regional fields of Slavic, Asian, UK, American, Latin American and French Studies.

One pivotal collection from the catalog is, Rare Buddhist Sanskrit Manuscripts. This collection contains approximately 23,000 leaves and includes the oldest Buddhist Sanskrit and Nepalese manuscripts ever found.

This preface provides a glimpse into the contents of the Rare Manuscripts Catalog of ProQuest microform. Feel free to browse through our titles, or if you are looking for a particular research collection, please consult the index in the back. If you have any questions regarding any of our titles, please contact your ProQuest representative at umisalesinfo@il.proquest.com, 800.521.0600 ext. 2793 or 734.761.4700 ext. 2793.

If you would like additional copies of this or any of our ProQuest Microform Catalogs, you may either make photocopies of the catalogs or contact your ProQuest representative to have printed copies mailed directly to you.

The Advantages of Microform

Despite the continually developing array of digital technologies—and sometimes because of it—information professionals at libraries and universities worldwide still rely on microform. They know it is an archival medium that will meet the needs of researchers for years to come. Microform provides many advantages including:

- New Viewer/Scanners - Images can now be easily sent to remote locations using microform viewer/scanners, which link to your computer workstations, letting you view and print articles or digitize and transmit them electronically (within Fair Use guidelines). This approach combines the unparalleled preservation and storage benefits of microform with the speed and ease of electronic access.
- Special Collections - Microform is the answer if you need hard-to-find or specialty resources. Many older newspapers and periodicals are available only in microform, and it gives your users access to complete page images from historical titles—often from the first issue forward.
- Space Savings - Microform lets you store an extensive collection of complete article images in a small amount of space. Microform takes up less than one-tenth the area of bound copies of newspapers and periodicals.
- Ownership - There is no upkeep or access fees. It uses stable, proven technology you already have, with no need for new workstations or continual software upgrades.
- Clarity and Accuracy - Microform is the answer if you need cover-to-cover clarity and accuracy. Full-image articles are essential to getting the full story.
- Complete Collection - Microform usually is the best solution if you need a complete collection fast. Maybe you're seeking accreditation or even rebuilding after a disaster. An extensive, customized collection of retrospective and current microform titles will meet the needs of your researchers quickly and efficiently.
- Support for Specialized Studies - A compact collection in microform will meet specialized research needs and still leave plenty of resources for the rest of your population. Many libraries also use microform as an added point of access for content that is most in demand.
- Durability - archived properly, it can last for generations, and there is no degradation of images.
- ProQuest Quality - ProQuest's microform images are taken directly from the original printed pages, so you always get the clarity of first-generation copies.

ProQuest Microform is the answer because we've been producing it since 1938. We not only exceed industry standards, we set them. Our microform products include thousands of newspapers and periodicals, and hundreds of research collections, many of which are not available from any other source.

The Beynon Manuscript

This classic microfilm collection represents the most extensive body of Tsimshian literature available for linguistic, anthropological and theological scholarship. It also provides documentation on North American Indian myths and traditions. The Tsimshian people are native to the territory along the international border between Alaska and British Columbia. They were cultural innovators who created the totem pole and many other art forms characteristic of the Pacific Northwest coastal region. The Beynon Manuscript was processed and transcribed by William Beynon, a native speaker of the Tsimshian language. He recorded the history, ethnography and literature of his people, preserving an important cultural history for the future. Included in the collection are:

- Narratives of clan histories and myths
- Descriptions of traditional ceremonies, practices and beliefs

In the mid-1930s, Beynon worked with the famed ethnologist and philologist Franz Boas, helping with precise translations of Tsimshian tales that Boas had recorded in phonetic orthography several decades earlier. Beynon added significant material and clarified passages that had been previously misinterpreted. Boas then indexed, abstracted and arranged into several volumes the more than 10,000 pages of The Beynon Manuscript. He presented the entire collection to Columbia University, where the original manuscript is now preserved in the Rare Book and Manuscript Division of Butler Library.

Draper Manuscripts

The Draper Manuscripts, collected by Lyman C. Draper, contain first hand accounts from men and women involved in the emerging American frontier including Draper's own notes on his many interviews with Western pioneers and their descendants. Easily accessible through calendars and a printed guide, the biographies, oral histories and other documents provide important data on military figures, pioneers, Indian leaders and influential families as well as maps and genealogies useful to local and cultural historians. Among the biographical manuscripts are Daniel Boone's 1774 military account books and his Kentucky land survey notebooks, papers by and about the noted Mohawk chief, Joseph Brant and the Campaign Leader, Thomas Sumter, together with accounts of frontier life from the diary of Thomas Spottswood Hinde. The regional manuscripts include the Frontier War Papers - original letters and journals kept by participants in the Indian wars in the West from 1754 to 1815 - the Kentucky Papers and the King's Mountain Papers assembled by Draper to mark the centenary of the victory of frontier troops over Loyalist soldiers at King's Mountain, South Carolina in 1780.

The Heartman Manuscript Collection at Xavier University Library, New Orleans: Manuscripts on Slavery*

The Xavier University of New Orleans, the only Black Catholic Institute of Higher Education in the United States, possesses in its library a substantial collection of manuscripts relating to the North American slave trade during the period 1724-1897, including important documents from New Orleans dating from 1803 to early Reconstruction. Built up over 20 years by Charles F. Heartman, a Mississippi book-dealer, the Collection of over 4,000 pieces provides a fascinating insight into the civil and legal status of enslaved blacks. The New Orleans Municipal Records are an extremely valuable source of information on the work and leisure activities of the 19th century slaves and the Xavier library also holds the only surviving manuscript of official slave-auction records. Other items include plantation accounts and estate appraisals, lists of slaves, private letters and bills-of-sale documenting the importation of slaves into Louisiana from Africa. The publication of the manuscripts on microfilm ensures that the priceless information offered by this unique collection is widely available and thus provides an unparalleled opportunity for research and study into the slave trade.

Morristown Manuscript Collection

Over the years, scores of scholars and researchers have visited Morristown National Historical Park in New Jersey specifically to gain access to the more than 60,000 pages of important manuscripts contained in its collection. Now, this historical resource is available to students of American history, Americana, genealogy and Revolutionary War history through this microfilm collection. Though the emphasis is on the Revolutionary War period and men such as Franklin, Jefferson, Adams, Hamilton, Madison and Washington, there is substantial material on 19th century figures like Martin Van Buren, Daniel Webster and Robert E. Lee. Also featured are many items on the French and Indian War, the War of 1812 and the Civil War period. Materials on and writings by such literary notables as Samuel Clemens, James Fenimore Cooper, Ralph Waldo Emerson and Washington Irving are also represented. The collection is divided into two parts - The Lloyd W. Smith Collection and The Park Collection.

The Lloyd W. Smith Collection had its origin in banker, philanthropist and collector Smith's deep interest in compiling and preserving Washingtonia and materials related to genealogies and local histories in his native New Jersey. Over the years, his interest became a preoccupation and he often purchased large-scale lots of manuscript materials to acquire a few desired items. Smith's will dictated that the Morristown National Historical Park should be the final recipient of his valuable holdings and a library was constructed to house the collection. The Park Collection consists of materials acquired by the Washington Association of New Jersey, which was formed in 1874 to save and perpetuate the Ford Mansion, George Washington's headquarters in 1779 and 1780. In addition to preserving his home as a national shrine, the Association made a concerted effort to collect Washingtonia and other equally valuable documents and artifacts from America's past. When Morristown National Historical Park was created in 1933, the National Park Service purchased these manuscripts, which became the nucleus of the collection. From politics to fine arts, this collection has something for every researcher and it is one of the most significant collections of materials of this type in the United States.

North America and the West Indies. Manuscript Maps Relating to North America and the West Indies in British Repositories*

1760 - 1783

The years 1760-1783 mark the apogee of British mapping in North America. Maps and plans at various scales were accepted as indispensable adjuncts to both the civil functions of colonial administration and to military needs for fortification, strategic planning and troop movement. Many of the maps surviving these decades were commissioned by the Crown and not only exemplify the development of cartography during the Enlightenment, but also provide a record, sometimes unique, of the events and places to which they relate.

A People at War: Civil War Manuscripts

A People at War reproduces on microfilm the personal papers of more than 350 people from both North and South - civilians, professionals, camp followers and ordinary soldiers, participants and observers, male and female, black and white. A written record of the silent majority of the Civil War, the collection incorporates a remarkable range of voices and viewpoints from a Union private describing camp life during the Shenandoah campaign or a lieutenant recounting troop reaction to the Appomattox surrender to a prisoner of war telling of suffering at Andersonville and an ex-slavewoman writing about conditions in the North. These papers are the raw materials of history opening up to researchers such elusive issues as the attitudes and actions of non-combatants in the war, the condition and contribution of blacks, the role of women both in and behind the lines of battle, the treatment of convalescents and prisoners of war, weapons development and tactical innovations and the place of religion in the lives of ordinary soldiers. A highly significant research resource, organized to be easily accessible, A People at War revolutionizes our understanding of the event that shook the foundations of the United States.

Buddhist. Rare Buddhist Sanskrit Manuscripts

862 AD - 1952 AD

Between February 1873 and May 1876, Dr. Daniel Wright, surgeon to the British Residency at Kathmandu, Nepal, collected a large number of Buddhist manuscripts. They are recognized as a unique group of priceless cultural and historical artifacts. Now held at Cambridge University Library, parts I and II of the microfilm collection are comprised 267 manuscripts containing approximately 23,000 leaves, and includes the oldest Buddhist Sanskrit and Nepalese manuscripts ever found, including two extraordinary documents from the 9th century A.D. The main historical importance of the present collection consists in the names of kings given, in so many cases, along with the carefully and minutely expressed dates of writing..., states the guide to the collection, authored by Cecil Bendall, Cambridge University Press, 1883. Bendall explains that keeping in view the double local origin of our collection, the subject of History, like that of Palaeography, falls into two main divisions, relating respectively to Bengal and Nepal. As Bendall states, the collection allows the user to gain fresh and valuable pieces of contemporary testimony about events happening at the time of writing.

The Archives of the French Protestant Church*

1560 - 1889

The archives comprise over 300 manuscripts and more than 100 miscellaneous papers. Most of the manuscripts relate to the 18th century but the earliest is a volume of 'Actes' for 1560-65 (Ms 1). Other 16th century material includes three volumes of Actes (1571-1599); the Dernier des Pauvres (1572-3); the Police et Discipline (1578); the Livre de Coetus (1575-98); the Livres de Colloques (1581-1654). There are also a number relating to the 17th century including an important series concerned with the great influx of immigrants before and after the revocation of the Edict of Nantes. Although there are many gaps in the records where material has been lost, the historian must be grateful that so much has survived the turbulence of church history.

Napoléon, Sa Famille et Son Entourage: Documents du Musée Historique d'État, Moscou

1769 - 1850

A little-known but historically important collection of more than 2,500 Napoleonic documents held in the archives of the State Historical Museum of Moscow is now being offered on microfilm. These documents were scattered throughout the Museum's various collections; most of them had never been published. Now available are some 30 letters and documents in Napoléon's own hand or containing his signature, approximately 100 documents written or signed by Napoléon's own family members and more than 2,400 documents from his military and political entourage. The documents now on microfilm come from collections originally assembled both by private collectors and institutions which acquired individual items from many sources. The two largest groups of documents come from the private collections of Count Grigorii Vladimirovich Orlov and the well-known art collector Petr Ivanovich Shchukin. The collection provides a more complete understanding of Napoléon, his time and his circle and is an important contribution to Napoleonic research.

The Medieval Manuscripts from the Anhalt Regional Library Dessau *

The Anhalt regional Library can look back at an eventful history: opened back in February 1922 as Anhaltische Landesbucherei, it's holdings based on the Ducal Administrative Library founded between 1876 and 1878. During the 1920's, several additional collections found their way into the Anhalt Regional Library, part of which were the Ducal Court Library and Georg's Library. During world War II the library was struck hard by a major damage: about 90 percent of its holdings were lost. Thanks to intensive exchange deals after 1945 - for example with the Berlin, the Gotha and the Halle Libraries - the library's inventory increased again. In 1959, the library was integrated to the Halle University and Regional Library. A few years later it was united with the Dessau City Library and eventually, in 1991, the library received its original name: Anhaltische Landesbucherei. Today its collection numbers 111,000 volumes, 10,000 of which are old holdings. The thematic spectrum reaches from theology, law, art, poetry, music and medicine to the natural sciences. Among today's manuscript holdings from the Anhalt Regional Library, the Georg's Library is the largest. The most valuable manuscripts mainly belong to this library.

- Die Georgsbibliothek (George III Library)

Georg III (1506-1553) was dean of the cathedral in Magdeburg and later evangelic bishop in Merseburg. Among his friends were Martin Luther and Melanchthon. Georg's mother, Margarete von Münsterberg (1473-1530) and other members of the family helped increasing his library. In 1926, the state of Anhalt decided to buy the collection for the Anhalt Regional Library. Today, Georg's Library contains about 500 volumes (1,800 titles). Some of them are richly illustrated manuscripts, incunabula and early paintings. It also records writings by Reformers such as Luther, Melanchthon, Zwingli, Calvin and Hutten, as well as by anti-Reformers such as Johannes Eck and Cochläus. In addition to that, there are also classical writers, works by humanists (for example Erasmus) and many more. Beginning in 1528, Georg even started collecting Hebrew writings.

- Die Herzogliche Behördenbibliothek (Ducal Administrative Library), 1568-1900

It unites several collections from Bernburg and Dessau; the most important one being the Bernburg Library of the Princes Christian I (1599-1656). This collection reached its peak back in the early 18th century: in 1715 it numbered 2,335 titles. Also integrated into the Herzogliche Behördenbibliothek were: the Arnstadt and Sonderhausen Library; the library of the convent Gerode, the library of the Fürstlich Anhaltische Deutsche Gessellschaft (Anhalt's Princely German Association), the collections from the Mining Department Harzgerode, the Medicinal Libraries Bernburg and the Anhalt Collection owned by the pastor and historian Theodor Elze (1823-1900). A number of institutions, such as the Office for Statistics, the Office for Agriculture and the Princely Amalienstiftung, also donated their holdings to the Anhalt Regional Library.

- Die Herzogliche Hofbibliothek (Ducal Court Library), 1567-1889

Opened in 1820 as a public library, it housed the libraries of various castles in Dessau and its surrounding areas. The oldest collection is the one established by Johann Georg I (1567-1618), which was later continued by his daughter, Eva Katharina (1613-1679). Also worth mentioning is the library of Prince Friedrich Franz von Wörlitz. In addition to that, the following libraries were also included: the library of the architect Friedrich Wilhelm von Erdmannsdorff (1736-1800), the collections of both the elementary school and the Philanthropinum, as well as several other private collections such as one formerly owned by the Russian librarian von Schardius or the astronomer Schwabe. In 1898 the collection of Prussian diplomat Hermann von Thiele (1812-1889), which focused on history and literature, also found its way into the Anhalt Regional Library.

Munich University Library. The Manuscripts of the Munich University Library*

800 - 1600

The Munich University Library is in possession of more than 600 medieval manuscripts. Some of them are exceptional treasures such as Lex Baiuvariorum, the oldest preserved manuscript of the Bavarian public law (dating back to around 800) or a gospel book from the court school of Karl the Great (also around 800).

- The Medieval German Manuscripts, 500-1450

They mainly consist of 100 entirely textual manuscripts or manuscripts for commodity, Artes liberales and religious prose, books of law (Golden Bull, Upper Bavarian land law, several Swabian codes, city law of Augsburg), calendars, cooking manuscripts, a hunting book, medical and scientific texts. Most codices date back to the second half of the 15th century and originate from Old Bavaria, Franconia and from the Swabian region. There are also some texts from central parts of Germany as well as from the Netherlands. Worth mentioning is a book by Michael de Leones (around 1350), which presents a rich tradition of Middle high German literature.

Munich, Germany; In German

263 fiche

- The Medieval Latin Manuscripts, 500-1450

The folio works as part of this collection consist of about 230 titles of mainly Southern German origin, more than half of them being of theological content. Many of them once belonged to the University of Vienna. In addition to that there is a remarkable amount of codices of Italian origin as well as some French and Bohemian texts. Noteworthy are the juridical (among them several formularies and lecture notes from Pavia) and both the philosophic and scientific texts. Also worth mentioning are a gospel book (from the court school of Karl the Great), a fragment by Euklid (originating from Northern France, around 800), a comment to the Epistle to the Hebrews by Hrabanus Maurus (France, 9th century), the Annals of Weissenburg (11th century), records of the Council of Konstanz, a corpus of texts from the Albertistenschule in Cologne, an anthology containing more than 200 letters and speeches dating back to the 15th century from near Venice and autographs by Johannes Eck. A Greek medieval manuscript also included in this collection is a commented gospel book dating back to the 10th century. The only octavo manuscripts are mostly volumes from the late Middle Ages. The most exclusive among the oldest pieces is Lex Baiuvariorum from the early 9th century. Two thirds of the octave manuscripts belonged to the Franciscan Order in Landshut. They are mostly of theological content, several being the orders' books of rule. In addition to the manuscripts already mentioned there also exist 140 in quarto format. They cover all medieval fields of knowledge: astronomic, scientific, grammatical (incl. Hebrew) and rhetoric, theologic and philosophic, juridical and historical texts as well as classical authors. Some of the noteworthy books are works by Rufinus, Sulpicius Severus and Augustinus (8th/9th century), works by Cicero (10th/11th century), the Würzburg Psalterium (around 1200), letters from Conrad Celtis, the Ingolstadt Library catalogue from 1508 as well as a few more manuscripts once belonging to Johannes Eck, especially an autograph dating back to 1510 and containing geographic and cosmographic notes going back to the times Eck spent in Feiburg.

- The Music Manuscripts

The microfiche edition contains the total stock of music manuscripts from Munich University Library: 42 medieval and 26 modern pieces. Several vocal books and an anthology from the 13th century belonging to the humanist and music theorist Heinrich Glaeren are especially noteworthy. Also significant is a series of Stimmbücher (hymn books) from Southern German Tegernsee and Ebersberg, the order of the Prämönstratenser in Schäflarn and the Augustinian convent Moosburg (Moosburger Graduale, around 1355). In literary studies, the music manuscripts of the Munich University Library have so far found varying attention. The interest has mainly been focused on already known single texts of the collection, such as the Moosburger Graduale, while other rarities are still hardly known. The German Antiphonarium, The Bauerberger Vollbrevier, the organ books of Bernhard Rem and the motet collection of Senftl for instance have only sporadically been of interest for scientific research and are still waiting to be discovered by specialists.

The public library of Augsburg was established in 1537. In the course of the Reformation, many monasteries were abandoned. Thus, parts of the Carmelite, Dominican and Franciscan Orders' book collections became the foundations of the new library's collection. The librarian in charge was the rector of the gymnasium of St. Anna, founded in 1531. The 106 musical manuscripts of the Staats- und Stadtbibliothek Augsburg date from the 13th to the 20th century. A small part of the collection comprises material from the 15th century and early 16th century, which includes 16 manuscripts. There is also material from the period from 1550 until the 30 Years War, with 42 manuscripts. Altogether, 82 manuscripts in the collection originated before 1806 and 38 of them came from the Benedictine Abbey of St. Ulrich and Afra. The musical manuscripts of the Staats- und Stadtbibliothek from the 19th and 20th centuries mainly consist of works of local composers. The library owns, for example, manuscripts of compositions by the Augsburg Cathedral Director of Music, Franz Gregor Bühler (4 Cod. mus. 12, 13, 14, 15 and 23), whose Masses and oratorios became very popular in Southern Germany and Austria in the 19th century. Some mandora and lute tabulators show some of the common music of the 18th century (Tonk. Schl. 290 and Tonk. Schl. 509), whereas one popular manuscript with lute music (Tonk. Fasc. III) comprises chamber music which had been played at the Court of Bayreuth. Although one cannot dispute that these titles are of some importance as evidence of the music of the time, the most valuable pieces in the collection will be found between the 14th and 17th centuries.

Here one must point out a psaltery (2 Cod.49a) written by Leonard Wagner in 1495 and richly illuminated in the studio of Georg Beck and an illuminated gradual also written by Wagner in approximately 1500 (2 Cod. 248). In particular, splendidly rendered is a manuscript by Andreas Maierhofer from 1568 with Magnificat-Compositions by the Dutch Orlando di Lasso (Tonk. Schl. 13) which triggered an intense study of Lasso in St. Ulrich and Afra. There are also compositions by Lasso students from Munich among the Augsburg handwritings. Leonard Lechner (Tonk. Schl. 20), Jakob Reiner (Tonk. Schl. 4) and Johann Eccard (Tonk. Schl. 6) should be mentioned among these. Of special interest in terms of music history is the manuscript 2 Cod. 142a from 1505-1514. It is a fine example of common music in Augsburg, including songs, chansons and motets. Among the composers it includes are Fuldra, Finck, Josquin, Senfl and Alexander Agricola. From the collection of the Reichsstadt are two manuscripts containing Renaissance motets by predominantly Dutch composers, which were written in 1570/71 and 1595 (Tonk. Schl. 273-278 and Tonk. Schl. 298-301). Also of historical importance is a 1616 score - manuscripts with canzones and motets by Asprilio Pacelli, Giovanni and Andrea Gabrieli (Tonk. Schl. 39).

A cross-section of Augsburg's Catholic music prior to the 30 Years War is exemplified by a choir book from 1610 by St. Ulrich and Afra's first writer Johannes Dreher (Tonk. Schl. 4). Not only can figures of international significance, such as Clemens non papa, Hollander, Lasso and Palestrina, be found here, but also the representatives of the Augsburg music world, such as Aichinger, Erbach and Klingenstein. Of particular interest for music historians are fragments of a manuscript from around 1500, including free renderings of French-Burgundy Chansons and motets by composers of the Ockeghem-Generation, which was found bound in scrap paper in Mindelheim in 1610 (4 Cod. mus. 25). As a concluding example of superb pieces from the collection, one should mention the Sequentiar 8 Cod. 61 from 1561-1562. It is quite exceptional because it contains 100 sequences, of which 96 were excluded by the council of Trident. It was mainly preserved for purposes of posterity. The manuscripts from the Staats- und Stadtbibliothek Augsburg are still of exceptional significance for scholars of music science and music history, both as evidence of music development in Augsburg before 1630 and, in the case of the later works, for their significance as single compositions. Music theorists and practitioners will always be interested in using them in scholarly research or as evidence in scientific analyses and in reviving them through performances or new publications. This microform publication will dramatically enhance the accessibility of these splendid manuscripts for all users.

The collection of biographical materials compiled by the famous Russian literary scholar and bibliographer B.L. Modzalevskii (1874-1928) and his son includes material from the 18th to the early 20th century. It consists of more than 165,000 handwritten cards, organized in alphabetical order by name, reflecting little-known facts and background material relating to nearly 100,000 influential people in Russian art and society. Besides celebrities, a large number of cards pertain to people who were never well known, but whose contribution to the development of Russian culture was essential.

These manuscripts are representative of the culture of the Russian people who first settled the area of Upper Kamah in the 16th century and whose migrations greatly increased in the 17th century. These people, mainly Old Believers, were fleeing church reforms and were looking for a place where they were able to continue observing their rituals and traditions. A part of the Old Believers population were forbidden to use books written after the Nikonian Reform. Thus they used manuscripts instead, until the 20th century. These manuscripts, although mostly religious in nature, are also reflective of the lives and ideas of the Old Believers.

The Anglo-Saxon & Mediaeval Manuscripts Collection, Corpus Christi College*

The collection of Mediaeval manuscripts held at Corpus Christi College Cambridge is one of the foremost in the Western world. In particular, it is renowned for the quality and number of its Anglo-Saxon manuscripts, which devolved mainly from the famous collection deposited by Archbishop Parker on his death in 1575. There are six main subject areas in the manuscripts and a selection of miscellaneous subjects entitled "Secular Studies". Among the great treasures of the collection are the Canterbury Gospels, the Peterborough Psalter, Chaucer's Troilus and Criseyde, the Anglo-Saxon Chronicles, the Dover Bible and the Bury Bible.

British Planning History*

The British planning system and its supporting institutions, journals and educational structure has become a powerful force in the 20th century, not only in Britain, but also throughout the world. While Britain has derived planning ideas from other countries, such as land use controls from Germany and parkways from the United States, she has also exported ideas, techniques, institutions, professional training and personnel on a large scale, both to the British Dominions and former colonies and to other countries, such as America and Japan.

According to the Venerable Bede, Caedmon was a herdsman of Whitby who was inspired to sing the Bible stories. Archbishop Ussher (d.1656) discovered this manuscript and attributed it to Caedmon and though it is now believed that he was mistaken, it is still called the Caedmon manuscript. It consists of poems telling the Bible stories and is illustrated with Saxon drawings of around 1100.

Calendars of Charters and Rolls in the Manuscript Collection of the Bodleian Library

1101 - 2000

Property deeds predominate, with manorial court rolls and accounts, but there are also many more personal documents like wills, inventories, marriage settlements, estate records and official papers such as commissions of appointment of sheriffs, deputy lieutenants and army officers and taxation records. Together these documents and bundles, some 35,000 in all, provide a mass of information on people and places all over the country. It has been the Library's standard practice to calendar and index charters and rolls as a group apart from other manuscript material. A calendar of those acquired before 1878 was published that year, but the many thousands of documents acquired since then have hitherto been accessible only through hand-written calendar slips and index cards, available only in the Bodleian Library. Publication of the calendar and index cards on microfiche, alongside the Library's working copy of the 1878 Calendar heavily corrected and annotated by W.D. Macray, reveals for the first time the wealth of documentation on local, social and economic history available in this under-used resource. Scholars can now carry out much preliminary research in their own libraries before consulting the documents themselves. Indeed for many research purposes sufficient information is contained in the calendars to make a visit to the Bodleian unnecessary.

Earls Colne: Records of an English Village, 1400 - 1750

Though England has some of the most extensive historical records in the world, until now the expense and labor of collecting the material from scattered repositories made it impossible to publish the complete records relating to a well-documented parish. The use of computerized indexing and storage facilities together with direct reproduction on computer output microfiche have now made such a publication possible.

Earls Colne was chosen because it is the most fully documented village in England. The surviving records, almost all transcribed in full, include an especially good series of manorial records, account books, a diary and early 16th century map. Using these sources economic and social historians can watch a small microcosm of the nation living out their lives over the course of more than three centuries.

Faraday, Michael. The Manuscripts of Michael Faraday*

1791 - 1867

This composite of Faraday manuscripts reproduce the notes for his popular lectures at the Royal Institution; digesting and delivering science to the public. In particular the films from the Guildhall Library reproduce Faraday's retained papers on his role as Scientific Adviser to the Corporation of Trinity House, the English and Welsh lighthouse authority. The notes he kept of the scientific lectures by John Tatum (at the City Philosophical Society) and by Humphry Davy (at the Royal Institution) attended while an apprentice bookbinder as well as his 1818 class book, detail his early interest in science. Until recently most attention on Faraday's work has centered on his scientific discoveries. The publication of these microfilms will help facilitate and extend these studies and thus properly locate Faraday's position in 19th century science and society.

Glastonbury Abbey Documents*

1200 - 1600

Glastonbury Abbey, one of the wealthiest abbeys in Britain prior to the dissolution of the monasteries, obtained its income from its vast estates in the southwest of England. The monks were meticulous in documenting their property and detailed records of all the estates in their possession were kept at Glastonbury. After the dissolution, the abbey was forced to relinquish its lands; the records, though, remained. Over 900 of them- in the form of court and compotus vellum rolls dating from the 13th to the 16th centuries and varying in length from 5 feet to 400 feet- made their way to the monument room at Longleat. There they have stayed to this day, most of them in a remarkably fine state of preservation. Now the complete series is available on microfilm to all historians interested in England in the Middle Ages.

Husting Rolls of Deeds and Wills

From 1252 testaments disposing of real property in London and a variety of deeds, mainly conveyance of land, were noted by the clerks of the Court of Husting on parchment rolls. The resulting texts are a unique record of the shape and structure of the city from the 13th to the 15th century. Now conveniently accessible for the first time, the Husting Rolls allow researchers to trace the histories of individual properties and of streets, markets, and other features of the city. Successive generations of owners and tenants, and a rich nexus of relationships, can be distinguished while the forms of the rolls throw light on the workings of the Husting Court itself.

Illuminated Manuscripts at the Guildhall Library*

1100 - 1600

The Mediaeval Manuscript collection at the Guildhall Library, London, is a very fine collection of fascinating documents which provides highly accurate details of their times. The subjects covered include: the Bible and religious festivals, mediaeval regional court proceedings and calendars/annual catalogues. Unfortunately, these manuscripts are rarely viewed, as they are not part of a University or College collection. Among the manuscripts are: 4 outstanding Books of Hours, a 16th century Formularium, St. John's Gospel, Johannes Glosatus and many more exquisite examples of the illuminator's art. The entire collection is captured on color microfilm, bringing to life the magnificent decorations and illustrations which accompany these texts.

Lambeth Palace Library. The Mediaeval Manuscripts*

800 - 1500

The mediaeval manuscripts in Lambeth Palace Library number over 600 volumes dating from the 9th to the 15th centuries. The collection was made principally at the beginning of the 17th century and is in its range and quality one of the most important collections in existence. It has now been placed on microfilm in its entirety. In addition to masterpieces of mediaeval art such as the Lambeth bible and the Lambeth Apocalypse, it covers almost every aspect of mediaeval thought and learning, notably art, history, poetry (including English poetry), medicine, philosophy, liturgy, the Bible and Greek and Latin classical literature.

Livery Company Archives*

The Tacklehouse and Ticket Porters and the Comb-Makers minute books, accounts and other records, 1566-1895, is a collection shedding particular light on The Fellowship Porters, an organization with roots in the 13th century that retained sole rights to the handling of measurable commodities until the mid-19th century. Like most of the City Livery Companies, the origins of the Pewterers Company lie in the Middle Ages. During the 15th century, craftsmen began to exercise more control over their own trades. The Crown granted charters allowing craftsmen to form guilds that exercised extensive jurisdiction over all aspects of the trade. The Pewterers were granted a charter by Edward IV in 1474 and their records, extant from 1451, continue unbroken, embracing later charters, company ordinances, by-laws and records of members.

The Mediaeval Manuscript Collection, Queens' College Cambridge*

The collection of manuscripts at Queen's College was originally described and listed by T.H. Home in his full catalogue of the College Library (two volumes, 1827). The twenty-one most important mediaeval manuscripts were later catalogued by M.R. James in his 'Descriptive Catalogue of the Western Manuscripts in the Library of Queens' College, Cambridge' (Cambridge, 1905). These have been microfilmed, together with nine others that were either described only by Home, or added later.

Mediaeval Manuscript Collection, Trinity College Cambridge Library*

The world famous library of Trinity College, Cambridge is the home of some of the greatest treasures surviving from the Middle Ages. The collection, which contains some 1,500 volumes, has been microfilmed in its entirety and will allow scholars the opportunity to explore a unique source of information on every aspect of mediaeval knowledge. Though manuscripts such as The Trinity Apocalypse, the Canterbury Psalter, the Winchester Psalter and a copy of St. Paul's Epistles (possibly in Bede's own hand) stand out, it is the depth and range of Trinity's holdings which make this collection such an indispensable source.

Oxford, England

418 reels 35mm

- I: Biblical Studies, 1300-1500

The Biblical Manuscripts reflect the working life of a university. Students were required to lecture on one of the books of the Bible and there are a large number of glossed books of the Bible as well as many one-volume University Bibles. Amongst the 14th and 15th century manuscripts are many by contemporary Oxford scholars.

From St. Edmund's College, Ware. The oldest and most important English music manuscript to have survived dating from the mid-15th century and consisting of a collection of parts of the Ordinary of the Mass to which certain hymns and motets were added. Covering the period of transition from the old conductus to the new polyphonic style, compositions range from the reign of Edward III to that of Henry VI and include the only genuine example of a work left by John Dunstable in his own country, the motet Veni, Sancte Spiritus (folio 55b).

Paris, Matthew. Matthew Paris: Historia Major*

1200 - 1300

Matthew Paris lived from around 1200 to around 1259 and was a monk at the great Benedictine Abbey of St Albans. His chronicle provides the basic source of contemporary information in the reign of King Henry III. The volume and scope of his work, with its detailed account of contemporary happenings, his lively, vivid narrative, his personal prejudices and partisan judgments and his love of gossip make his writings stimulating and attractive. The manuscripts are decorated with his detailed and carefully colored drawings depicting moments of drama and action. Ms. 26 covers the history of the world from the Creation to 1188 and Ms. 16 continues the story up to 1253.

Society of Antiquaries of London Heraldic Manuscripts

1301 - 1800

Founded in 1717, the Society of Antiquaries of London received its Royal Charter from King George II in 1751, making it the second oldest of the Royal Societies. Heraldic studies have always been among the Society's interests and many members of the College of Arms have been and are numbered among the fellowship. By 1816, the Society already owned several important heraldic books and rolls, including the 15th century copy of Charles' Roll (now MS.517), the miscellany MS.136 and several others, including the Illyrian armorial c.1600, a finely painted major source for early Balkan heraldry. The holdings of continental heraldry were greatly increased when Sir Augustus Wollaston Franks bequeathed his library to the Society at the end of the 19th century. Further important acquisitions, mainly English rolls and books, were made in the 20th century, the most important being the greater part of the collection of heraldic material made by Dugdale and others in 1641. The collection contains a special selection of volumes and rolls totaling 36 items with many thousands of coats of arms covering a 500-year period. Among them are the arms of Austrian, Bosnian, Croatian, Dalmatian, English, German, Serbian and Spanish families, including arms attributed to classical heroes and saints. Also included are selected examples of Dictionaries of Arms, family genealogies, a rare volume of South Slav heraldry and the Hatton-Dugdale facsimilies.

Weldon Manuscripts from Douai Abbey*

1707, Ms. Dom Bennet Weldon was commissioned by the President of the Congress to collect material relating to the history of the English Benedictine Congregation, with a view to preserving it for future historians. He produced, in 1707, two massive volumes containing both original documents and copies (made by Weldon himself), which are the most important source of English Benedictine history in the 17th century.

Westminster Abbey Library Early Printed and Manuscript Music*

1700 - 1800

The majority of this collection is choral music. Much of the printed music is Italian, mostly of the 17th century, including sacred works by Colona, Foggia, Gratiani and others. There is also a good collection of secular works, including works by Monteverdi and Ferretti. The manuscript music, which makes up a third of the series, is mostly from the 18th century.

Hebrew Manuscripts. The Collective Catalogue of Hebrew Manuscripts

1950 - 1988

The Collective Catalogue of Hebrew Manuscripts on microfiche reproduces two major catalogues at the Jewish National and University Library in Jerusalem: the catalogue of the Institute of Microfilmed Hebrew Manuscripts and that of the Library's own Department of Manuscripts. The first contains details of approximately 50,000 codices and 200,000 fragments found in some 700 collections traced in libraries, museums, cathedrals, colleges, synagogues and private collections in 30 countries. The Institute has been systematically collecting Hebrew manuscripts since 1950 and new items, now recorded in an on-line catalogue, are being added all the time. The Jewish National and University Library's own collection of Hebrew manuscripts includes some 7,750 manuscript codices from the 10th century onwards, some of them finely illuminated. A union catalogue of virtually all the Hebrew manuscript holdings in the world, the Collective Catalogue is an essential reference work for all researchers in Jewish and Hebrew studies and biblical history.

Heraldic & Genealogical Manuscripts of the 16th and 17th Centuries at Lambeth Palace Library

1501 - 1700

Lambeth Palace Library is the historic library of the archbishops of Canterbury and the principal library and record office for the history of the Church of England. The Library was founded as a public library by Archbishop Bancroft in 1610. The Library focuses on ecclesiastical history, but its rich collections are important for an immense variety of topics, from the history of art and architecture to colonial and Commonwealth history, and for innumerable aspects of English social, political, and economic history. It is also a significant resource for local history and genealogy. This unique collection of 24 manuscripts include armorials of English, Scottish, French, German, Italian, Dutch, Portuguese, and Spanish families, together with pedigrees of many noble European families.

The Medieval Manuscripts of Carolina Rediviva: C Collection from the University of Uppsala Library, Sweden

c.1375 - c.1530

OmniSys World Literature Collections (OWL)

This rich collection, largely consisting of medieval material, constitutes two thirds of the complete C Collection and includes 512 volumes. A large portion of the volumes in the collection come from the monastic library at Vadstena, which was built in 1384 and rapidly developed into the largest and most influential monastery in Sweden. The period from c.1375-c.1530 is remarkable for the artistic and literary activities of the Bridgettine nuns at Vadstena. Several nuns were assiduous scribes, developing a characteristic handwriting with a broad pen and vigorous perpendicular strokes. Although generally their manuscripts were unadorned, occasional manuscripts were decorated with collage miniatures in a style showing English influence.

These manuscripts contain a wealth of information concerning the medieval history of Sweden, with a great deal of material on St. Birgitta and her order. The collection also includes a similar group of manuscripts from the monastery of the Franciscan priory in Stockholm. Other material in the collection consists of booty from Germany and Poland captured during the Thirty Years' War. Of this material, the manuscripts from the Episcopal Library in Frauenberg are probably the most important, with some of them beautifully illuminated. Although religion is a major theme of this collection, the material included is diverse in scope, including medicine, astronomy, law, philosophy and history. Practically all of the classical writers known and studied in the Middle Ages, from Aristotle to Virgil, are represented, as are most Medieval Latin writers of stature.

Newton, Sir Isaac. Sir Isaac Newton: Manuscripts and Papers

The complete collections from Cambridge University Library, King's College Library, Cambridge and the Jewish National and University Library with other important holdings in Great Britain, Europe and the United States. Newton's intellectual life was by any standard unimaginably rich. His collected manuscripts and papers are a resource of inestimable value to scholars in many disciplines including historians of science and technology, of philosophy and of religion. Sir Isaac Newton: Manuscripts and Papers brings together on microfilm the most comprehensive possible collection of Newton's writings offering access to a body of mostly unpublished and often fragile and inaccessible manuscripts which has been gathered into a single collection for the first time. The range of material is vast and extends from the notebooks kept by Newton as he read and experimented, drafts of many published and unpublished writings, including successive versions of the Principia, through to notes hastily scribbled on scraps of paper. In the manuscripts and papers is to be found the whole man. They include commonplace books; working notes and drafts of his mathematical discoveries, his work in optics and dynamics and his chemical experiments (including alchemy); shipbuilding blueprints; educational projects; ecclesiastical calendars; historical theology; interpretations of mythology; world geography; economic treatises; records of the Royal Mint; chronological and historical studies of ancient Kingdoms; commentaries on Daniel and the Apocalypse; and medical treatises and potions. Scholars can now explore, in one resource, every aspect of Newtonian achievement, both scientific and otherwise.

UMI Dissertation Publishing

Soon after its founding in 1938, UMI became the publisher of record for U.S. doctoral dissertations. To this day, ProQuest fills that role for graduate students whose dissertations and masters theses have been accepted by accredited institutions throughout North America.

How UMI's Dissertation Program Works

Dissertations and theses available from ProQuest /UMI are used by researchers in all fields of study. The ProQuest /UMI dissertation product line – which consists of bibliographic data, indexing, access tools and the published documents themselves – is recognized worldwide because of its comprehensive coverage, high-quality information and rigorous editorial control.

The online ProQuest Dissertation & Theses Database (PQDT) catalogs over 2 million doctoral dissertations and master's theses, dating from the first U.S. dissertation in 1861. Thousands more are added yearly. Over one million dissertations and theses are available in full page image in microform and paper, both bound and unbound. Many are also available in digital format, for downloading over the Web. Dissertations can be located and ordered on a standing order basis or via:

- ProQuest Dissertations & Theses, which provides searching capabilities and online access to citations and abstracts for every title in the database. Titles published since 1997 are available in .PDF digital format and have citation and abstract, plus 24 page previews available. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- ProQuest Dissertation Express for both individuals and libraries. If you have a specific title in mind, Dissertation Express will let you look it up by title, author or publication number. Once you find it, you can place your order immediately via our online ordering system. Use this service when you know exactly which dissertation you need to order. Dissertations can be purchased in print, microfiche or .pdf format.
- DATRIX Direct – custom computerized search service (please see the DATRIX form enclosed in this document). This is an individualized search we perform for you based on your specific research topic.
- UMI Digital Archiving and Access Program - Ask your UMI representative about this new access and preservation service for institutions.

DATRIX DIRECT

Direct to you Successful research depends on your sources. That's why if you're preparing to start a research project, it makes sense to first find out what's been written in your area of interest. You'll not only avoid duplicating someone else's work, you'll benefit from their research. | You could search the titles of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses yourself—if you have the time and patience. Or you can have DATRIX Direct conduct a dissertation search for you that's exhaustive, not exhausting.

Discover sources unique to your topic

DATRIX Direct is an individualized search that gives a one-of-a-kind listing of only those dissertation citations directly relevant to your specific research topic. The result is a computer printout of exactly the bibliographic citations you need. No more and no less. It could be as many as five hundred or as few as none (informing you that your research topic is totally unexplored).

Because it's a computerized search, DATRIX Direct is comprehensive—through UMI's vast computer database of over 1.6 million dissertations and master's theses dating back to 1861. And with thousands of citations being added to the database every month, DATRIX Direct is more up-to-date than any printed source. ■ Each citation includes a title, author, degree, date, institution, subject category, and order number, as well as where the abstract can be found in UMI's monthly publication Dissertation Abstracts International or the bi monthly Masters Abstracts International.

How to order your search

To organize your search, complete both sides of the DATRIX Direct Search Request form and send it to UMI at the address shown. ■

The results of your DATRIX Direct search will be sent first-class mail and should arrive within two weeks of receipt of your order. For faster service, call us toll free at 800-521-3042; outside the U.S. and Canada, call 734-761-4700, ext. 7044.

SUBJECT CATEGORIES Dissertation Abstracts International is arranged by subject categories. These categories have been selected by the authors to identify their dissertations.

MATRIX DIRECT SEARCH REQUEST

The success of your search depends on how accurately and specifically you describe your research needs. The information you provide below will help us create a search strategy. Please type or clearly print in ink.

RESEARCH TOPIC Write the proposed title of your study or a summary of your research topic _____

DATABASE MATERIAL TO BE SEARCHED (Please check one.) Dissertations & master's theses Dissertations only Master's theses only

KEYWORDS UMI's dissertation database is accessed by a search for keywords in the dissertation title. The number of relevant citations retrieved depends largely on your keyword strategy. For best results, follow the procedure below:

1 Write 1 to 3 keywords from your research topic that might appear together in the dissertation titles in our database (e.g., "Nursing Burnout"). A keyword can also be numeric ("1980") or alphanumeric ("B12"). Only dissertation titles containing all the words you list on a single line can be retrieved.

2 To avoid having to list all possible word endings for a keyword, simply write the root word and an asterisk. One or more complete words must follow the root word on the same line (e.g., "Nurs*", "Burnout" would search for words such as "nurse, nurses, and nursing" which appear in the same titles as "burnout").

3 Use the other lines for synonyms and alternate words and spellings (e.g., "RN; LPN; BSN").

4 Modify words likely to appear in hundreds of titles with more specific words.

5 If appropriate, use the right-hand column to list keywords that exclude data you don't want. (e.g., "Nurs", "Home" and "Nurs", "Homes" would exclude titles relating to nursing homes or home nursing. Note that the computer recognizes no word order.)

SUBJECT CATEGORIES (optional) Each citation title is listed in UMI's dissertation database in a subject category chosen by the author. On the opposite page is a complete listing of subject categories and codes. List the categories (and codes) most relevant to your research topic.

DEGREE DATES (optional) You may narrow the database search to certain years or time periods (e.g., "1980 through 1983"). This is especially recommended for broad categories such as "Education, Administrative", for which nearly 1,200 titles are added each year.

INSTITUTIONS AWARDING DEGREES (optional) You may restrict the search to dissertations and master's theses prepared for specific institutions (e.g., "New York University and UCLA").
