Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications, 1895–1976

The only digital finding aid that offers single-point access to identify documents from nearly 1,000 monthly catalog issues spanning 80 years.

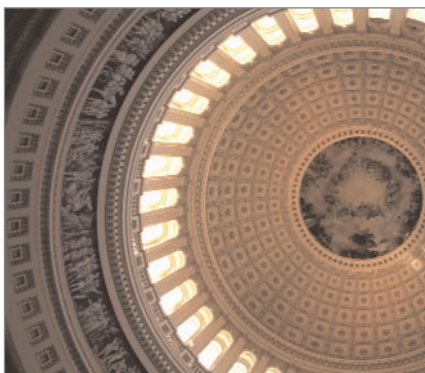

CHADWYCK-HEALEY

The entire backfile of nearly 1,000 monthly catalog issues—instantly searchable and browsable.

Chadwyck-Healey's Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications, 1895–1976 from ProQuest is the premier source to identify high-value U.S. documents created by all three branches of the U.S. government since 1895. This unique archive offers the complete backfile of keyed bibliographic records, together with archival-quality page images in PDF format.

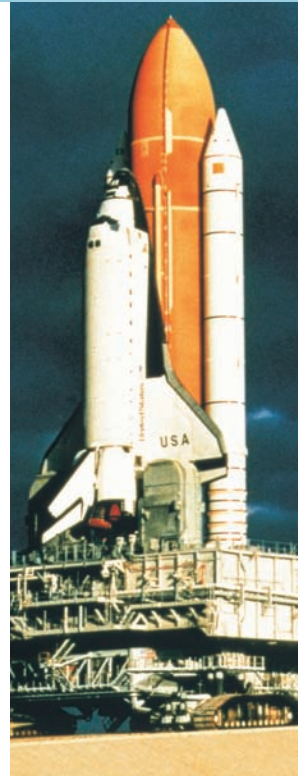

In 1976, the Government Printing Office (GPO) began publishing the new issues of the Monthly Catalog online. These records (from 1976 forward) are available on the GPO's website and on CD-ROM. However, only ProQuest offers seamless searching of the digital backfile records from 1895–1976.

The complete digital archive to monthly catalog issues from 1895–1976.

While the U.S. government is the largest publisher in the world, few documents have been cataloged historically. The Monthly Catalog is the only reliable digital finding aid that offers single-point access to identify documents spanning 80 years. Each entry is carefully zoned, keyed, and fielded for maximum accuracy in searching and browsing. Individual catalog records link to the original catalog page image to ensure authenticity. With this complete archive, you can remove nearly a thousand monthly catalog issues from your shelf!

Information for a spectrum of needs.

Indexed documents provide data on:
